GRADE 6 weekly newsletter 9

Announcements and News from Miss Trenkamp

This coming week the students will be working on their brochure for their Saint Reports and will have a chance to start their presentations as well. In reading, the students will finish their book club books and as a group create a presentation to present to the class. In science, the students will be working to create models of gravity's effect on the galaxy. In social studies, the students will continue to study the agricultural revolution. In writing, the students will work on using prepositional phrases and editing their reports. In math, the students will start converting between percents, fractions, and decimals.

This week the students have been needing a few more reminders on the classroom expectations. As we continue moving into the fall, my hope is that the students can continue to make these expectations habit and grow relationships.

In November, the students will have the opportunity to visit the planetarium in Lansing as a field trip with the fifth grade! More information to come!

The students have become very excited and engaged working on their Saint reports! As the students finish out this busy month, I have encouraged them to work on each big project a little a night so they do not have so much to do next week.

As always, if you have any questions or concerns feel free to let me know!

Blessings,

Miss Trenkamp

What did we do last week?

This past week the students finished their rough drafts of their Saint Reports and Patriot's Pen. Some students were even able to start the editing process which is wonderful! It is awesome to see how excited the students have become as they make connections to their Saints! In reading, the students continued meeting with their book club groups. In math, the students finished their chapter on ratios and rates. In science, the students completed two simulations as they discovered gravities role in the universe. In social studies, the students began comparing groups of early humans and began looking at the effects of the agricultural revolution!
